An Editorial

Tribute To Herbert Hoover

SPEECH PREPARED BY
 MRS. MARIETTA B. WESSON
 OF TAVARES FOR SPEECH
 110 CLASS

As you all know, one of our last living ex-presidents just died. The man was 90 years old but his long life had been built on a foundation of tears. The country he loved so much chose to ridicule him and ignore him.

Mrs. Marietta B. Wesson

In an age when the American people are looking for someone, anyone, to be their image, their idea of the way and American should be, this man was all but forgotten. We have only to look around us to realize things are not as they should be—to listen to the low level of campaigns for public office—to read the things our government is accused of. What kind of man was Herbert Hoover, then?

Became Orphan

He was a self-made man. He was an orphan by the time he was nine years old. What he got he worked for. When he was old enough for college, there was no Daddy there with the cash, so he got a job. When he graduated with a degree in engineering, he still wasn't on easy street. Times were hard and all he could find was a job in a mine, pushing an ore cart all day for $2.50. Nevertheless, in two years he was director of mines in Australia. In two more years he was running all the English mines in China.

Hoover worked with hard-drinking, hard-playing men but he wasn't one of them. He was a straight-laced young Quaker, but these rough men didn't resent him—they admired him. He was the best miner in the lot. Here was a man who lived as he believed and was respected for it.

In 18 years overseas he was worth six million dollars made in mining, but he looked about him during World War I in Europe and saw millions who were starving. He then quit mining and did something about it. As head of the Relief Administration in Belgium Hoover kept 10 million people from starving for four years; yet in his own country he was later to be blamed for all the conditions which existed during the depression.

Big Depression

Mr. Hoover didn't cause the depression—the conditions were already there. He just happened to be in office when they broke, and he was publicly blamed for the depression by politicians.

Herbert Hoover had nothing but contempt for most of the politicians of his day. He considered them hale and hearty fellows, always ready with a broad smile and the intimate slap on the back, more concerned with first names than first principles, and having a flair for flattering the masses of people that was mostly contempt for their level of understanding. Politicians used the President as a scapegoat.

Mr. Hoover suffered a humiliating defeat when he ran for re-election. Through the years since 1933 he has been condemned by his people and his party. Harry Truman did more to restore him to his rightful place as a respected statesman than any other man. He asked Hoover to come to the White House and called him one of the greatest living Americans. Herbert Hoover was put back into the service of his country at last. People began to remember that he was a man of high intelligence and great administrative ability. This is somewhat of a paradox—he had been the best-known and best-loved American to Europeans for 19 years.

Relied on Service

It has been said that Mr. Hoover made a comeback. It would be more accurate to say the country made a comeback and found Mr. Hoover where he'd always been, too securely planted in his moral soil to be uprooted by hurricanes of slander.

Presidents Truman and Eisenhower relied upon Hoover's experience and knowledge. But by now it is the afternoon of Herbert Hoover's life. We can say he had the sunshine of the nation's respect and gratitude for his last hours. The shadows he had known as a younger man have passed away.

Now he is gone. Neither shadows nor sun can reach him but the wasted years of the spring of his life will haunt the American people. It seems to be more a part of the nature of men to condemn a man who is set apart from others by his conviction than to mourn after he is gone.

Mr. President, we bid you farewell. May your storm-tossed spirit find its resting place.

Mrs. Mary Ruth Taylor
 Coordinator of Student Activities
 Lake-Sumter Junior College
 Leesburg, Florida

Dear Mary Ruth:

My hearty congratulations to you and the Angler staff for the excellent publication which came out Monday. Although I have not had time to read each item as yet, I am much impressed with the general layout and the broad coverage of news it contains. It would appear that this is our most outstanding Angler issue to date in our new college.

We appreciate your hard work and leadership in making this publication possible and I certainly would want each student involved in this publication to know that we appreciate their hard work and ability.

Sincerely yours,

Paul P. Williams

Valuable Orchids Go On Journey

President Paul Williams, Mr. William Brown, Mr. Lawrence Denslow, Bill Bass, Steve Kibrough, Jerome Parker and Buddy Turk were among those who helped move the Lake-Sumter Junior College's orchid collection from Sorrento Thursday, Oct. 21.

The orchid plants are part of a valuable collection which was donated to the junior college early in the year by Dr. and Mrs. Herbert S. Zim of Planation, Ky. First valued by a commercial importer at about $6,573.50, the 1,050 orchid and 57 bromeliads, plants, pots, benches and various nursery materials have now been salvaged as well as could be (about 250 plants were saved) and moved to the Foster Broadway Greenhouse in the annex of Leesburg High School.

DONORS

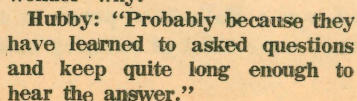

The donors of this outstanding collection, Dr. and Mrs. Zim, are well-known authors in the field of science and natural history. Dr. Zim received his Ph.D. from Columbia University in 1940 and taught there and at the University of Illinois. He is the former editor of "Our Wonderful World," an 18-volume encyclopedic anthology. Now Zim is the editor of the "Golden Guide" series and serves as editor-in-chief of the "Golden Encyclopedia of Natural History," in addition to being the author of juvenile books for William Morrow and Co.

Dr. Floyd Shuttleworth, former L-SJC chairman of the science and math division, was instrumental in bringing the collection to the attention of Dr. and Mrs. Zim. Through Shuttleworth's efforts the valuable contribution was made.

Next semester the plants will be moved out to the new campus and will be placed on display as they bloom. Meanwhile students can see them in the greenhouse as they walk past on the way to the library. One bit of warning from Mr. Brown, though, "Look but don't touch!"

HEARTS ARE BROKEN: Seated from left, going clockwise around the table are, Bill Arrow-smith, who gleefully swipes a cigarette, while James Smith gloats, "Aha, White, you haven't got a chance." Art Rich and John Maruniak are "taking it all in," and Burney White seems worried about his hand. Bobby Brown seems quite happy with his, but as you can see, Landy White should be worried, too. Tom Vernon laughs as usual, for as usual, he never wins!

THE JOE HARRIS SHOW—In action on the Saturday afternoon Joe Harris show on WVGT, 1580 k.c., and located in Mount Dora, is our favorite student D. J., Joe Harris. Joe is a full-time freshman at L-SJC, and also works with the Nation Rocking Shadows as a public relations man. Listen to Joe Every Saturday afternoon from noon to 6 p.m. and from 11 a.m. to noon Saturday mornings for his broadcasts of the Tavares football games.

Association (FJCSGA).

The SGA decided to run a candidate from L-SJC because a necessity was seen for the promotion of strong leadership and of strong cooperation between the Student Government association of each Junior College and the Florida Junior College Student Government Association.

Jerry is very capable and very qualified to fulfill these needs. The delegates chosen to attend the first state convention in Miami Beach, Nov. 12-13, with Jerry are Buddy Hooten, Glen Walker and Jeff Wright.

Other Business

Other business of the meeting was the explanation of the 1964 budget by the treasurer, Janet Baker. This was followed by the appointments of the chairman of each committee and a discussion of the duties of each committee.

Committees and their chairman are: Honor Court, Glen Walker; Student Policies, Bill Bozeman and Buddy Hooten; Student Participation in College Activities, Diana Jackson and

Tennis Anyone? Come Out For Lake-Sumter Net Team

By MARILYN BLOUNT

Would someone like a can of brand new tennis balls? Join the tennis team and you are welcome to all you can wear out!

Mr. William Brown and Mrs. Mary Taylor are encouraging all students who have played tennis before to come out and practice for the team.

"The more, the merrier," could well be the team's motto because competition for positions will be keener, more interesting, and fairer if a good number of students turn out.

the field of business. All who attended received a great deal of advice that would be helpful in choosing a career.

The club has a present membership of about 20 members. Anyone who is interested in the Business Club may obtain information from any of our members or they may attend a meeting.

TOP CLUB

The members are working hard to establish Phi Beta Lambda, in hopes that the club will be one of the top clubs on campus in the near future. Phi Beta Lambda is one of the top business clubs both statewide and nationwide.

The next meeting of Phi Beta Lambda will be posted in the student lounge.

PLEASE NOTICE! Constitution Committee consists of Brenda Pace, Howard Satin, Glen Walker, Bobby Potsko, John Franklin, Richard Lenze, and Jean Coleman is acting secretary.

CIRCLE K

THE CIRCLE K CLUB of L-SJC has the honor of hosting the Circle K district conference to be held Nov. 7 in Leesburg. The conference will be attended by delegates from the 24 Circle K clubs in Florida and its purpose will be to stimulate and coordinate statewide Circle K activities.

During the week of Oct. 19,

Students who have so far planned to go out for the tennis team are as follows: Patrick Arneodo, Jere James, Steve Kimbrough, Jim Polk, Marilyn Blount, Beth Davis, Winnie Griffith, Judi Jones, Sandy Schoenberger, Louise Terrell and Sharon Uhl.

Some of the tentative matches scheduled for the boys include Daytona Beach Junior College, Central Florida Junior College, Florida College in Tampa, Florida Military, Brevard Junior College and the new Polk County Junior College in Winter Haven.

Mrs. Taylor is still working on the girls' schedule, which might include an invitational match with FSU in Tallahassee.

Mr. Brown is hoping that the junior college will get some courts on the new campus when the roads are paved, but until that lucky day, all potential tennis players are invited to come down to the Venetian Gardens courts to practice.

Circle K selected 20 pledges, who at the time of their final initiation should bring the total Circle K membership to 34 members. The pledges are Tommy Atkinson, Jim Bedell, Johnny Dixon, Terry Neil, Ken Pearce, Warren Schroeder, Don Starwalt, Glen Walker, Ray Ball, Jay Boyd, Marion Craig, Paul Horner, George Kennedy, Mike Newman, Robert Potsko, and John Rittenhouse.

INITIATION

These men are now in the process of an initiation designed to temper their spirits by testing their willingness and sincerity. As part of their initiation the pledges were available to the faculty and the female population of L-SJC to perform needed services.

Pledges are at all times under the close scrutiny of old members.

FENCING CLUB

THE FENCING CLUB has started a new program of instruction. Because of the long distance the members must travel, and the inability of the members to attend Wednesday afternoon practice, instruction will now be at night.

On the first and third Mondays of the month instruction will be in Eustis. On the second and fourth Wednesdays instruction will be held in the Skeen Elementary auditorium. On these dates instruction will be from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. The first night meeting was Nov. 4 at First Federal Savings and Loan in Eustis starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Each member is required to pay his $1.50 club dues, or he may pay 25 cents per lesson. All interested persons not members of the L-SJC club may attend at a charge of 25 cents per lesson and furnish their own equipment.

PRANK OR PROTEST? — The Monday following Halloween the L-SJC campus was graced by the presence of an old-fashioned bathroom—more commonly known as an "outhouse." According to popular student opinion it was "high time." This modernization of restroom facilities resulted after Leesburg High School put a lock on the gym doors. (The gym was where most college students disposed of pressing matters.) The reason given for the policing of the gym area was that the junior college students were carrying on in un-gentlemanly and unlady-like manners. (Proven tests show these actions not to be too unusual.) Whether or not this act of putting the outhouse on campus was a Halloween prank or an open protest is left up to the readers, but some students said they were tired of running half a mile to the nearest group of secluded trees.
